UN Rights Chief Asked to Help Halt Looming Iran Executions

Human Rights Watch (HRW) has asked the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights to help halt the execution of prisoners in Iran, which is set to begin in the coming days.

HRW says that the Iranian government has not provided any information about the prisoners who are to be executed, and that the government has not allowed HRW to visit the prisons to investigate the cases.

HRW says that the Iranian government has a long history of human rights abuses, and that the execution of prisoners is a clear violation of international law.

HRW says that it has documented the execution of at least 100 prisoners in Iran since the start of the war in Ukraine, and that the number of prisoners is likely to increase in the coming days.

HRW says that it has written to the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights, Volker Turk, asking him to help halt the execution of prisoners in Iran.

HRW says that it has also written to the UN Security Council, asking it to take action to halt the execution of prisoners in Iran.

HRW says that it will continue to monitor the situation in Iran and will report back to the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights and the UN Security Council.
