Two former Presidents of the European Commission and dozens of European leaders are among signatories of the open letter

The international community must identify ways to overcome the current and future challenges of the world. The letter, signed by more than 100 former world leaders, including two former Presidents of the European Commission, is the result of a year-long process in Brussels, and has been distributed to all member states of the European Union.

The letter calls for a global initiative to address the challenges of the world, including the need for a new global architecture, a new global governance system, and a new global development agenda.

New global initiative

More than 100 former world leaders urge support for uprising in Iran with practical steps

Two former Presidents of the European Commission and dozens of European leaders are among signatories of the open letter

The international community must support Iran's anti-democracy protesters and block the Revolutionary Guards (IRGC), more than 100 distinguished former world leaders representing 43 nations announced in a new global initiative. The call was made in a collective letter to the leaders of world powers on Tuesday, just days after the regime executed three protesters.

The 100 leaders were excluded for taking part in the nationwide uprising that began last September. In the past three weeks, there has been an alarming surge in state-sanctioned executions, exceeding a staggering count of 100 as the regime tries to suppress protests with impunity.

The collective letter by 107 former heads of state or government called on the leaders of Canada, the EU, UK, and US to reject the "leadership of the Islamic Republic of Iran to account for its crimes."

"We encourage you to stand in solidarity with the people of Iran in their desire for a secular and democratic republic; affirm that individual, regardless of religion or birthright, has any privilege over others. Through their protests, the Iranian people have made it clear that they reject all forms of dictatorship, be it that of the departed Shah or the current theocratic regime, and that reject any association with either," the open letter reads.

The former leaders requested that the 10-point plan for the future of Iran articulated by Mrs. Maryam Rajvi, President-elect of the democratic coalition National Council of Resistance of Iran, deserves international support.

The screenshot shows a news broadcast interface. On the left, a document titled "New global initiative" is displayed, with the subtitle "More than 100 business world leaders urge support for opening to trade with practical steps". The document text is partially legible, mentioning "The Special Representative of the European Commission" and "European leaders".

On the right side of the document, there is a grid of 15 small video thumbnails, each showing a different person, likely participants in a virtual meeting or conference. The thumbnails are arranged in three columns and five rows.
